As we look at the final portion of Jesus' sermon about the scribes and Pharisees, it is extremely important that we examine ourselves to be absolutely sure that we are not committing the same spiritual crimes as these "religious elite." The outrage we show towards the minor elements of life is disturbing and frustrating, but it also reveals a lack of understanding concerning the Word of God and concerning how a Christian should exist in the world.

This morning, we are staring directly into the face of apostasy as those who thought they were religious were exposed as being lawless hypocrites. If we are not on our guard, this very thing could happen to us today. I pray that we would examine our hearts this morning to make sure that we are setting the proper example for those around us. If you are here this morning and have not become a child of God, I pray that you find here a gathering of the children of God who are actively encouraging you to make that decision.

- Scott
