I WANT to follow this example of the apostles. I will not ignore the personal application of it in MY LIFE:

1. Because it is hard.
2. Because it is unfamiliar.
3. Because it will change my life radically.
4. Because I might fail (according to a standard I place on myself? Given by Jesus?).
5. By deliberately putting my attention on something that I am good at, and telling myself that what I am “good at” makes up for what I am neglecting.
6. By making excuses, which I often call “a lack of talent.”

Which apostle used one of these ideas to explain why they were not teaching and preaching Jesus Christ?

If that is the case, then why are WE comfortable making such explanations about us teaching and preaching Jesus Christ?

Alex
