South America Mission update:

Brook Nash, who was supposed to travel with me for the next couple years, has had some more time to consider his situation with me. He wants very badly to do the work of God, and I can tell that his heart is leading him into full-time ministry. He wants to do missions, and may still work with me on a trip, but it sounds like God is pulling his heart towards full-time ministry. His door with me is not closed in any way, but that means there is nobody going with Andra and I on this trip. The decision to take on this huge continent saw the potential for you to learn to become a worker for the Lord. I believe in you. More importantly, I believe in God to be able to help you.

It is not too late for you to think about going on this trip IF the Lord is putting this on your heart. You need to be an encourager, and someone that can walk into a completely foreign place and be willing to talk to people you don't know. Men would need to be able to be able to bring some words of instruction and spiritual encouragement. Most of all, if you want to go, you have to have the size of a mustard seed in a God, who will help you become whatever you need to be.

Pray about it. Keep us in your prayers. This is how missions usually happen. Some people want to go, but they just can't get some matters worked out. It is ok. God will use YOU, the willing, because God is able to make you bold and strong! Amen. Prayers for our work in South America!

Alex
