There are benchmarks in life that we all understand: losing your first tooth, moving to the 'big' school, turning 13, the first time to drive a car, first dates, and graduation falls in line with those benchmarks. However, unlike these other moments, graduation signals to everyone a dramatic shift in life events. There is a freedom that comes with graduation that does not accompany these other events, a sense of responsibility, and even fear that comes with stepping out into the world as a perceived 'adult'.

What do you do when you walk into an experience you have never had before? Most of us chuckle -- now -- about how ignorant and immature we were at that age, but when it is your child or a child you care deeply about, it becomes a far more serious thing to consider. It is not fair to those who are graduating for us to try and prevent them from ever experiencing life, but we most assuredly are expected to offer them Biblical guidance that would help them manage and grow their faith.

Pray for these young people. Pray for their families as they experience this benchmark with them. Pray that we, as their church family, can be a source of comfort and encouragement.
