There have been songs throughout our growing up years that seem to stick with us for reasons that sometimes we cannot even explain. These can be songs from movies, television shows, plays, or church songs that have a unique ability to infiltrate our brains and set up camp. The memories that come from singing certain songs or hearing certain songs are important (even if they are seemingly innocent or they lack a noteworthiness) and oftentimes those memories can reveal a connection that otherwise would have been lost.

As we have been moving our way through the lessons we can learn from songs, there has been a representation of songs from our past, present and even our future. The messages taught by these songs have been varied as well. There have been memories dredged up from a bygone era of songs that we do not sing very often anymore. There have been new memories created by taking the time to see the lyrics as an aid to understanding our Creator rather than complaining about the style, speed, etc. There have even been moments where some of us have been forced to stop singing and actually focus all of our attention on the sentiment being shared. In all of these moments and memories, we have seen God at work and I pray that as we close this series (for now), there is a better understanding of why singing in worship is so vital and is commanded by God.

Join in the worship this morning and be blessed!

-SW

Thoughts of Gratitude

Thank you for your prayers, care, and concern for our sister, Kim Schaffer. Although she lost her life to pancreatic cancer, she wanted so desperately to help those that were fighting the same battle. Your donations to purchase gas cards to be given away at the Clearview Cancer Institute was something that meant so much to her and she spoke of often. Thank you for your love and support.

-Donnie & Kim Lane

Dear Church Family, thank you for the outpouring of love and prayers during the sickness and passing of our husband and father, Wayne Lentz. We appreciate the many acts of kindness shown by so many; from visits, food, flowers, and words of encouragement. This congregation loves others well.

-Sylvia, Morris, Brannon, & Renee
